Are you tired of feeling lost in a sea of acronyms and certifications when trying to make an informed purchase?

Fear not! We have your back with a handy guide that will help you understand what each sustainable accreditation and scheme means.

100% Recyclable

Recyclable
Many items are made of raw ingredients that are easily recyclable. It is a legal requirement to dispose of waste carefully at the end of their life so that the maximum product is recycled. Recycling your waste means that it can be used to make new products, using less energy and raw materials.
There are often specific bins for recycling your waste at work, so check the recyclability of the product you're purchasing within your workplace. Choosing a product which has the ability to be recycled at the end of its life is a sustainable choice.

100% RECYCLED

Recycled
Want to do your part for the planet? Look no further than products that contain recycled materials! By using less raw ingredients and energy during production, these items are a great way to reduce your environmental impact.
And when it comes to plastic-based products, recycled content is especially important. By choosing items with a higher recycled content, you're helping to reduce the amount of plastic waste that ends up in landfills or the ocean. Plus, you can feel good knowing that you're supporting a circular economy by giving new life to materials that might otherwise be discarded.

Certified Carbon Neutral
Being certified carbon neutral means that the carbon emissions associated with the entire lifecycle of that product, from the raw material sourcing and manufacturing to distribution and disposal, have been calculated and offset through the purchase of carbon credits or other mechanisms that reduce carbon emissions elsewhere.
Carbon neutrality is achieved by first reducing the product's carbon footprint minimised through energy efficiency, renewable energy use, and other sustainable practices. Once the carbon footprint has been minimized, any remaining emissions are offset through the purchase of carbon credits, which fund projects that reduce greenhouse gas emissions, such as renewable energy, reforestation, and energy efficiency projects.

100% Biodegradable

Fully Biodegradable
Did you know that some items are made of ingredients that can break down naturally, thanks to bacteria and other living organisms? This is known as biodegradation, and it's a key way to help avoid pollution and keep our planet healthy.
However, biodegradation requires specific conditions to take place. For example, some products need to encounter water, while others may require an industrial composter. Without the right conditions, these items may not break down as intended, leaving them to cause damage to the environment instead.
We want to help you make the most sustainable choices possible. That's why we advise checking your workplace's waste stream management policies for biodegradable items. By ensuring that these items are disposed of properly, you can help promote biodegradation and reduce the amount of waste that ends up in landfills.

ECO FRIENDLY

Eco-Friendly
A non-accredited logo used to identify products with one or more of the listed certifications as notified by the manufacturer. It enables you to select products that are a more sustainable choice for the environment and community.

BLUE ANGEL
THE GERMAN ECOLABEL

Blue Angel
The Blue Angel is a voluntary environmental label awarded to products and services. It was created in Germany in 1978 and is considered one of the oldest and most prestigious ecolabels in the world. The label aims to promote environmentally friendly products and services and to support sustainable consumption.
To receive the Blue Angel label, products and services must meet strict environmental criteria that are regularly updated and reviewed. These criteria cover various aspects of a product's life cycle, including raw material extraction, production, use, and disposal. The criteria take into account factors such as resource conservation, pollution prevention, and the use of environmentally friendly materials and production processes.

cradle to cradle

Cradle 2 Cradle
The Cradle to Cradle (C2C) certification is a sustainability standard for products, developed by the Cradle 2 Cradle Products Innovation Institute. It is based on the concept of a circular economy, where waste is eliminated, and resources are continuously cycled back into the system. The certification assesses products across five criteria: material health, material reutilization, renewable energy, water stewardship, and social fairness.
To achieve C2C certification, a product must be designed with the end of its life cycle in mind, and all components must be safe for human health and the environment. The certification process includes a review of the product's materials, manufacturing processes, and supply chain, as well as an evaluation of its environmental and social impact.

EU Ecolabel

The EU Ecolabel certification, also known as the EU Flower, is a label awarded to products and services that meet high environmental standards in the European Union. The label was established in 1992 and aims to promote sustainable consumption and production by encouraging companies to develop and market environmentally friendly products and services.

To receive the EU Ecolabel, products and services must meet strict environmental criteria that are regularly updated and reviewed. These criteria cover various aspects of a product's life cycle, including raw material extraction, production, use, and disposal. The criteria take into account factors such as resource conservation, pollution prevention, and the use of environmentally friendly materials and production processes.

The Nordic Swan Ecolabel

The Nordic Swan Ecolabel is a voluntary certification system for products and services worldwide. It was established in 1989 and is based on a life-cycle approach, which means that products are evaluated based on their environmental impact throughout their entire life cycle, from raw materials to disposal.

To receive the Nordic Swan Ecolabel, products and services must meet strict environmental criteria that are regularly updated and reviewed. The criteria cover various aspects of a product's life cycle, including raw material extraction, production, use, and disposal. The criteria take into account factors such as resource conservation, pollution prevention, and the use of environmentally friendly materials and production processes.

The Programme for the Endorsement of Forest Certification

The Programme for the Endorsement of Forest Certification (PEFC) is an international non-profit organisation that promotes sustainable forest management through a certification system. The PEFC certification provides assurance that forest products come from responsibly managed forests and that the social, economic, and environmental values are protected.

The PEFC certification is based on a set of rigorous standards that cover various aspects of forest management, including biodiversity conservation, protection of ecosystem services, and stakeholder engagement. The certification process involves independent third-party auditing to ensure compliance with these standards.

CHECK OUT MORE STATS!

The UK office sector uses around 4 million tonnes of paper every year, which is equivalent to approximately 8 billion sheets of A4 paper.

The office supplies industry generates around 300,000 tonnes of waste each year, including paper, cardboard, and packaging materials.

The carbon footprint of the UK office supplies industry is estimated to be around 3.2 million tonnes of CO2 equivalent each year, which is roughly equivalent to the annual emissions of over 600,000 cars.

The UK has set a target of achieving net-zero carbon emissions by 2050, and by 2030, the aim is to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by at least 68% compared to 1990 levels.

The government is targeting a 50% reduction in food waste by 2030 and a 75% reduction in plastic packaging waste.
